

PROGRESS UPDATE

Where the site's at

SEE IT LIVE

dental-growth-lab.vercel.app

Best on a desktop or laptop, and have a good scroll through it, the whole thing is built around scroll so that is where it comes to life. Try the "Style 2" button up in the header too, more on that on the next page.

Hey Pujan, been a big week on this. Here is a rundown of everything I have changed and built off the back of our meeting, so you can see where it is all up to before your next look.

1 My Story, the big one

This is where most of the week went, and it is the part I am most pleased with. I have completely rebuilt how your numbers reveal. Instead of the old single stack, the practice you bought fills in down the left, then where you sold it fills in down the right, lined up so you read straight across each line: one clinician becomes twelve, two team members become twenty five, and so on. The labels run down a clean centre spine so the whole thing reads as a proper before and after.

Then turnover is held right back on its own as the finale. The number counts up to £2,500,000 and holds on screen as the closer, so it lands as the wow rather than getting lost in the list.

I also took out the crossed-out numbers and the little arrows you did not like, made "My Story" a proper big heading, set the story copy to reveal line by line as you scroll, and pulled in a couple more of your real data points (the 4.9 Google rating and the number one organic ranking). A fair bit of fiddly work under the hood too, getting the spine to sit as one dead straight line and making sure the numbers never nudge things out of place as they count up.

2 Your Practice section

Flipped the motion the way we talked about: the pain-point quotes now gather in the centre first, then roll outward as you scroll, the reverse of before. I took out the "Help" moment completely, so it flows cleanly into the four lines: the dentistry problem, the business problem, "you are not alone", and "Dental Growth Lab helps you change that". I also reworked how the cards are positioned so they never overlap or hide behind the header.

3 The hero

Reordered the tagline to More Profit. More Control. More Freedom. On the "good... is better" line beneath it, I dropped the strikethrough and put both lines at the same size, so the point lands through the words rather than a crossed-out gimmick.

4 Two new pages

- Book a Call. A proper page with a button straight to your live Calendly, a booking calendar built into the page and styled to match, and an email and phone option for anyone not quite ready to book.
- Logo exploration. A live page showing four logo directions (steering well clear of an obvious tooth icon) and two wordmark styles, so you can judge them against light and dark and across all the colours, in context rather than as flat pictures.

5 Colours, your choice to make

I have built the whole site so its colour is fully swappable, three schemes under the hood, flipped instantly with no separate build. So when you settle on a look, it is a switch, not a rebuild. The three are the original periwinkle, a blue-to-mint scheme built from that Calendly gradient you loved, and a deep teal option.

Style 1 PERIWINKLE, THE DEFAULT

The original look: an indigo-periwinkle accent on clean white and light grey, with a subtle grid texture behind the key sections. The more restrained, editorial, structured-consultancy feel.

Style 2 CALENDLY GRADIENT

Built from that Calendly screen you responded to. It swaps every accent to the blue-to-mint palette pulled from it, and adds a soft blurred gradient behind the hero and the opening sections. There is a live "Style 2" button in the header, so you can flip between the two instantly and compare, both ship in the one site.

6 Bits of polish and housekeeping

- Cleaned up the closing section and put client-friendly copy in place: testimonials, a booking system and a "How We Can Help" section are on the way.
- Restyled the Bought and Sold details as proper cards with icons instead of plain bullets.
- Sorted a handful of layout and spacing issues so everything sits right across screen sizes.
- Got the site previewing properly on phones and tablets, and added analytics so we can see how it performs.

7 What is next

The main things still to come are your testimonials on the Results page, the "How We Can Help" section built out from your copy, locking in the logo and the colourway once you have picked, and wiring the booking calendar to your live link. Have a scroll through, try both styles, and let me know your thoughts, no rush.

Really happy with how it is coming together.

Jude

PJMJ Studios