

DEVELOPMENT UPDATE

A week on the build.

Everything that has changed on your site since Sunday, from the full rebuild through to your real testimonials going in.

Dental Growth Lab

27 September to 1 October 2026

Rebuilt from the ground up

Since Sunday I have taken the site through a full rebuild off the back of your brief, then a proper round of refinements on top. Here is the whole picture, starting with the foundations that everything else sits on.

- ◆ One living background. A single full-screen blue gradient now stays still while the content rolls up over it. It feels calm and modern, and it means the whole site shares one backdrop rather than a patchwork of sections.
- ◆ One number controls the colour. The entire site, illustrations and all, is driven from a single colour value. When we land on your palette, the whole thing recolours in one move. That is the next job after this.
- ◆ Tighter, calmer type. Everything now runs on two sizes and two weights, so it reads clean and consistent instead of jumping around.
- ◆ Nothing hidden. Every section now leaves room for the top bar, checked from small laptops right up to large desktops, so no heading is ever trapped underneath it.
- ◆ Smoother scroll. The whole site glides now, and the menu links land exactly on their section every time.

The home page, top to bottom

Hero

New copy throughout, your four pillars front and centre, and a Book a Call that is always within reach in the top bar.

Good, or better

The "is good" and "is better" lines now sit at the same size with no crossing out, then the "most owners have a business problem" message reveals line by line as you scroll.

Feel Familiar

The owner quotes now sit full size and readable, gathered around the heading, then converge into "Dental Growth Lab can fix this" before the reframe copy appears. Twelve quotes showing, and they never overlap at any screen size.

My Story

The one pastel-white section, with your founder and practice photos in place. The full Purchased to Sold comparison fills in down the left, then the right, with turnover as the closing line, and the story reveals as you scroll.

How We Can Help

Your thirteen pillars as a clean stack, each card rising over the last, each with its own illustration.

Contact

Your booking calendar on the left, and an enquiry form on the right with a Practice Name field, a Send to Founder button, and a thank-you message the moment someone submits.

How We Work, and a week of refining

A new How We Work page

Added to the navigation. A vertical timeline lights up as you scroll through your four phases: Clarity and Leadership, Systems and Structure, Consolidation and Growth, and Freedom and Beyond. Below it, "Is Dental Coaching For Me?" is laid out as a clean two-sided comparison, followed by the full next-steps list.

Then a proper round of refinements

On top of the rebuild, I worked through a full pass of your notes:

- ◆ Text sizes brought down on the home and My Story sections, so each heading sits on screen alongside its Book a Call.
- ◆ The stats and the coaching-fit section returned to the cleaner two-sided layout you preferred.
- ◆ The pillar illustrations simplified to a clean, still set.
- ◆ The booking and form boxes trimmed so they sit more comfortably.
- ◆ The footer rebuilt so it reveals cleanly as the page lifts away, with the corners and spacing sorted across every screen size.

Real testimonials, two looks, next steps

Your testimonials and photos are in

Three real testimonials now live on the site: Jasdeep Gangotra, Dr Mital Patel and Mohit, each with their name, title, practice and full quote. Dr Patel's further titles appear when you open his card. Your founder photo and a photo of you in the practice are both in, framed to keep faces in view, and each card opens the full quote in place.

Two background looks to choose from

You can flip between two looks from the top bar. Style 1 is a bright azure with soft sky, cyan and mint glows in the corners. Style 2 is the rich royal blue it launched with. Your choice is remembered, and you can even share a link that opens on whichever one you want.

Scroll feel tightened

I tuned the scroll so the site responds closer to your hand, with far less drift after you stop. It feels direct now rather than floaty.

To finish

Two quick things to connect, your booking calendar link and the form key, and then the colour palette is the next job. Because the whole site recolours from a single value, your new colours drop in across everything in one move. That is where we go next.

Really pleased with where it is. Have a scroll through whenever you get a minute.

Jude

PJMJ Studios